Got Cargo to Carry? Hitch-Haul Has it All

Going camping and taking all the equipment? Delivering the first-born to a college dorm room or apartment? Taking the family to grandma's for the week?

Trying to figure out how to get it all there?

Masterbuilt can lend a helping hand – the company offers today's on-the-go consumers a line of cargo hauling products and accessories for nearly every occasion.

"We designed the first Hitch-Haul product 20 years ago to help meet the needs of SUV owners," says Keith Newton, Marketing Director at Masterbuilt. "Now, the owners of all types of vehicles are using them as an extension of cargo space, as well as to haul items that may not fit neatly inside the vehicle."

Hitch-Haul was the first hitch-mounted cargo carrier introduced to the market, and remains the most recognized and best selling brand. Each product has a patented design, so they are unique in the marketplace.

Made from steel and aluminum, the carriers have a capacity of up to 300 or 500 pounds, and some models are a generous 5' wide. Larger models have a metal mesh floor, and incorporate tie down holes within the design. Others models are created from steel tubing.

A number of accessories are available also. Water resistant cargo bags ensure that items arrive dry at their destination – whether they cover items on the Hitch-Haul carrier or transported on the rooftop. Side rail extension kits mount easily on Hitch-Haul models, which make it easier to transport taller items. An elastic tie-down web system helps keep items in place. Folding receiver bars and lift kits are available for those who don't yet have them mounted on their vehicle.

Hitch-Haul products can be found at Wal-Mart, Cabela's, Bass Pro Shops, Gander Mountain, Camping World, Dick's Sporting Goods, Pep Boys Auto, Stag Parkway, JC Whitney and at www.masterbuilt.com. Suggested retail prices range from $69 to $159.
